Showdown Due
In School CrisisGuardsmen Ready
To Maintain Order

STURGIS, Ky., Sept. 9 (AP)—Approximately 600 Kentucky National Guardsmen stood ready today to prevent further demonstrations against seven Negro youths at Sturgis High School.

Adj. Gen. J. B. Williams termed the situation "tense" and said Monday may be the turning point in a series of protest actions which began last Tuesday.

Four tanks were posted around the school. At least 35 state police officers were expected to be on hand to help.

But while the situation at Sturgis was called "bad enough" by some officials, trouble also was expected at the nearby Webster County community of Clay.

At that village last Friday two grade school negro children were turned away from the school. For the next two days the citizens of Clay refused to let any pictures be taken. They told newsmen they were armed and would resist any attempt to bring integration to their school.

While guardsmen and troopers patrolled Sturgis over the weekend, two FBI agents were investigating reports of intimidation and "possible civil rights violations" in Sturgis.

The troubles at Sturgis began Aug. 31 when nine Negroes enrolled at the school. Residents said there was no trouble. The Negroes stayed only a half day.

But on the following Tuesday, a group of segregationists turned the Negroes away.

They stayed home Wednesday and by that night the National Guardsmen were sent in by order of Gov. A. B. Chandler.

Resistance rose steadily. Most of the people of Sturgis now are blaming their troubles on "politics," and on the nearly 100 newsmen here to cover the story.

Clinton Near Normal

CLINTON, Tenn., Sept. 9 (AP)—The National Guard today returned all law enforcement duties to local authorities and cut its detachment here to 50 handpicked men.

A guard spokesman said "We are keeping men in Clinton only in the unlikely event that civil authorities should lose control of the situation."

Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement ordered 600 guardsmen into this east Tennessee city a week ago today after integration of the high school touched off mob violence.

Eight Europeans
Slain In Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria, Sept. 9 (AP)—Nationalist rebels erupted at three points in western Algeria today, bringing death to 12 persons, including eight Europeans.

Almost a score of others were injured in violence which led to an air-supported attack by French troops against a rebel band in the region of Mostaganem, on the coast between Algiers and Oran.

For more than half an hour late last night, the rebels cut the coastal highway between Oran and Mostaganem with machine gun fire concentrated on civilian automobiles. Reports to headquarters said six Europeans, including one woman, were killed.

Two European children, a 9-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother, escaped into nearby sand dunes when their parents' car came to a halt. The children were found uninjured early this morning, still hiding in the dunes.

Their parents had been killed but the children apparently had escaped in the confusion of the attack. They were turned over to the custody of an aunt.

French troops counterattacked and drove the rebels into the surrounding mountains.

Jet Starts Big Fire

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 9 (AP)—Fire raged on out of control today on Pine Mountain, where it was started yesterday by a crashing Air Force jet plane.

The pilot, rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter, was recovering in naval hospital.

Adlai Charges
"Misconduct"
In GOP RanksDeclares Scandals
Are Not Confined To State Governments

PALISADES PARK, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today that a contagion of misconduct and corruption "has marked the Eisenhower administration."

The Democratic presidential nominee thus attempted to throw back at the GOP one of the chief weapons the Republicans used against the Democrats in the 1952 campaign.

The Republican cry that year was against "communism, corruption and Korea."

Stevenson addressed a rally of several thousand supporters in this colorful amusement resort across the Hudson River from New York City.

Stevenson pointed to scandals under Republican administrations in New Jersey and Illinois and charges by Gov. George Leader of a Republican scandal in Pennsylvania and declared:

"I wish this contagion of Republican misconduct and corruption—that used to be charged to the Democrats—were confined to state governments."

Taibott Resignation Recalled

"It is not. It has marked the Eisenhower administration."

In declaring there had been misconduct in the Eisenhower administration, Stevenson referred to the resignation of Harold Taibott as secretary of the Air Force.

Stevenson commented on "the spectacular frauds committed by former Gov. (Harold G.) Hoffman" of New Jersey, "Republican perjury in Illinois," and Democratic charges of alleged swindling by Republican members of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The record of Democratic Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey, Stevenson said, "stands in sharp contrast to the wrongdoing that went on under the Republicans before he came to office."

"You know better than I the sorry record that was climaxed by the revelations of the spectacular frauds committed by former Gov. Hoffman," he said.

Embezzled $300,000

Hoffman, who died in 1954, left a posthumous letter to his daughter admitting embezzling $300,000 to cover political campaigns and pay off a blackmail.

Said Stevenson: "The late disclosures of Republican perjury in Illinois have humiliated every Illinoisan—Democrats and Republicans alike."

Orville E. Hodge, former Illinois state auditor and state Republican leader, now is serving a 12-year term for taking state money. Hodge pleaded guilty during his trial.

Stevenson then referred to Pennsylvania Gov. George Leader's recent calling for a grand jury probe into a potential 20-million dollar Pennsylvania Turnpike contracts and investigation of turnpike commission operations while it was under Republican control.

Two Men Born
Same Day Killed
In Auto Collision

EUREKA, Calif., Sept. 9 (AP)—Donald Brazill and Donald Chapman, born the same day 23 years ago, died at the same time early today when they met in a head-on automobile collision on U. S. 101 south of Eureka.

Brazill, of Ferndale, Calif., and Chapman, of Eureka, had their 23rd birthday anniversaries Sept. 5th.

Los Alamos Lab
Works On Atomic
Powered Rocket

LOS ALAMOS, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP)—The Los Alamos atomic laboratory disclosed today it has been working on atomic-powered rockets for the last year.

Laboratory officials would not reveal the status of their research which if successful would go a long way in opening the bridge to space, and which could power missiles of unlimited range.

Existence of the N Division at this laboratory where the atomic bomb was developed was disclosed in a brief press release announcing the employment of an engineer, William F. Carlson, Bristol, Conn.

The release identified the N Division as "concerned with the research and development of nuclear rocket propulsion." This was the first public word of existence of the project, heretofore under a tight secrecy lid.

Desegregation
'Agitators' Draw
Clement's Fire

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 9 (AP)—Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee said today he's chiefly concerned over "keeping outside agitators from stirring the people up" on the school integration problem.

"I'm not going to tolerate outside agitators, period," Clement said, as he arrived to preside over a meeting of Southern governors.

Clement had to send in troops at Clinton, Tenn., when an attempt to integrate public schools there brought on mob violence.

Asked if he saw any need for federal forces, Clement said:

"We don't need any interference from the federal government—and I don't mean the courts—I mean, from executive to executive. The people of Tennessee are capable of handling their problems."

Clement said that by "outside agitators" he meant those who tried to stir up trouble on either side of the school integration question. The only reason he used troops, he said, was to preserve law and order.

And he emphasized what he had said previously, that the troops were neither to keep the Negro youngsters in or out of the schools, but merely to see to it that order was restored.

Clement also dropped a political observation. He said that Adlai Stevenson, who lost Tennessee to Dwight D. Eisenhower four years ago, will carry the state easily in November. Clement went even further:

"I don't think the Democrats will lose a state in the South this time."

But the Southerners weren't unanimous on this point. Among the early arrivals, for instance, was Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas who in 1952 supported Eisenhower and whose slogan this year again is:

"I'm for Eisenhower."

Storm Off Carolina

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 9 (AP)—A tropical circulation intensified to storm proportions today and is moving northeast off the Carolina coast with no danger to the mainland.

The Miami Weather Bureau said in a 6:15 p.m. advisory that Carla was about 400 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N. C., at 5:30 p.m.

S. C. Blonde Launches Her
Reign As Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP)—Marian McKnight of South Carolina, a gracious teen-ager with a sense of humor, launched her year-long reign today as Miss America 1957.

And she told newsmen:

"I've already found out I can't do what I like."

With little more than two hours sleep, Marian went smilingly through a hectic two-hour report with photographers and reporters at a postbreakfast news conference.

"I like to go to bed late and to sleep late," the 19-year-old blonde beauty queen from Manning, S.C., confided. But Lenora Slaughter, director of the Miss America pageant, promptly informed Marian that this "routine" will be reversed.

"It's go to bed early and get up early" for Miss America, said Miss Slaughter, who described the new queen as a girl who "knows her own mind."

Marian won the Miss America title over 49 other contestants and was crowned before an applauding crowd of 22,000 in Convention Hall and a nationwide television audience last night.

Her talent specialty, a drawing, hit-swinging takeoff on actress Marilyn Monroe, helped her win the title and a $50,000 jackpot that includes a $5,000 scholarship, a wardrobe and fees for the personal appearances she will make during her reign.

Full House

Mrs. Anna M. Lacy, Evansville, Ind., has a full house up her sleeve as she arrives in California to compete for Mrs. U. S. Navy 1956. She is shown with her husband, Chief Hospitalman Henry E. Lacy, and their seven children, ranging in age from two months to 10 years. Mrs. Lacy's family is largest of any of the 30 finalists from far-flung naval districts.

Typhoon Bears
Down On Japan

Thousands Homeless On Okinawa

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 10 (AP)—Typhoon Emma smashed its way toward the teeming coasts of western Japan and South Korea early today leaving a multimillion dollar toll of havoc and thousands of natives homeless on the U. S. fortress island of Okinawa.

Violent rain and gusts up to 70 miles an hour battered Korea's south coast and Kyushu, Japan's southern island, as the monster 400-mile wide storm charged from Okinawa into the 150-mile wide strait between Japan and Korea.

At 9 p.m. Sunday the storm's center, spouting winds of 115 m.p.h., was located 155 miles west of Kagoshima, Japan's southernmost large city.

N.C. Governor
Hails Approval
Of School Plan

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 9 (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges declared today he was "tremendously pleased and impressed" with the overwhelming margin of approval North Carolinians yesterday gave to a state constitutional amendment aimed at preserving school segregation.

Nearly 600,000 persons voted, approving the plan by about 4-1. The plan was strongly endorsed by the governor. He called it a moderate approach to the U. S. Supreme Court's desegregation decrees and said it would preserve public school segregation and yet comply with the high court's ruling.

With 1,890 precincts of 2,047 reported, 453,052 voted for the amendment and 110,906 against.

The double barreled Pearsall amendment does not change the state's constitutional provision for maintaining public schools.

However, it modifies the constitution so as to:

1. Permit a local school unit, upon a petition of 15 per cent of its voters, to vote whether to close its schools. The governor has called this a safety-valve device which he hoped would be used only in "intolerable" situations.

2. Permit the payment of public funds, both state and local, to parents who want to send their children to private schools because they object to sending them to integrated public schools.

Secretary Sees Ike
Landslide Victor

LINCROFT, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP)—Bernard M. Shanley, secretary to President Eisenhower, warned today against overconfidence among Republicans but predicted the President would carry the country "in the greatest landslide in history."

Shanley, of Bernardsville, told the Monmouth County Federation of Republican Women that belief of a "shoo-in" victory would be courting the same disaster as in 1948 when Harry Truman upset Thomas Dewey.

As the President's secretary Shanley said he had been with him "more than any other person except his family. I can assure you that he is better today than he has ever been to my knowledge."

"He has more vigor, more drive and real ability to do this job than any man living."

Nasser Says
He Will Fight
"Domination"Egypt's President
Shows No Retreat
From Canal Seizure

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP)—President Nasser of Egypt said tonight any attempt to impose "collective domination" on the Suez Canal would signal "incalculable strife." He made the statement in a note to the five-nation Menzies commission.

The text of the note was released here along with other conference documents by the Australian government.

Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia was chairman of the commission sent by the London Suez conference to Cairo to present views of the conference on future control of the canal.

The talks closed without agreement after a final 25-minute session with Nasser tonight.

Nasser Reaffirms Policy

reaffirmed that his policy was to maintain free passage through the canal without discrimination. He said the 18-nation plan to put the canal under international control was intended to take the waterway "out of Egypt's hands" and added:

"It would be difficult to imagine anything more provocative to the people of Egypt than this."

The published note disclosed he said "it would be not the end of trouble but the beginning of trouble."

He insisted the "government of Egypt is fully entitled to nationalize" the canal.

Crisis "Artificially Created"

"Whatever the system of operation of the canal is going to be," he said, "it will depend on the close, full and willing cooperation of the people of Egypt, among whom and through whose country the canal runs."

"It is obvious that such indispensable cooperation cannot be had if the people will consider the operating body as hostile and as against their sovereignty, their rights and their dignity."

Nasser's note accused Britain, France and the Suez Canal Co. of creating difficulties despite which Egypt had kept the canal going.

"The crisis and the so-called 'grave situation' are . . . artificially created" by these three, he charged.

Little Kidnap
Victim Buried

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—Little Peter Weinberger was buried today, two months and five days after he was kidnaped from the rear patio of his parents' home.

The service was quiet and private, with none of the publicity that has dogged the family since the month-old infant was taken last July 4. Peter was found dead Aug. 24 in woods near the Plainville, N. Y., exit ramp of a well-traveled parkway, six miles from Westbury.

Angelo John LaMarca, 31-year-old cabbie, of Plainville, has been indicted for kidnaping and murder, both punishable by death.

Delayed by the requirements of police agencies, the burial today was attended only by members of the immediate family.

The only word of it was contained in a brief announcement afterwards by Rabbi Samuel Langer, of the Westbury Hebrew congregation, who conducted the service with the aid of Rabbi Jacob Rudin, of Temple Beth El, Great Neck, N. Y.

Aiken Declares Stevenson
Using 'Big Lie Technique'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today Adlai Stevenson "has resorted to the big lie technique" in talking about Republican attitudes toward small farmers.

Aiken, ranking Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee said the Democratic presidential nominee "says the Republicans have forsaken the small farmers."

"The issues are so clearcut in this instance Mr. Stevenson has resorted to the big lie technique to cloud them. He ought to recall the words of a great Republican, Abe Lincoln. 'You can't fool all of the people all of the time.'"

Aiken, in a statement released by the Republican National Committee, said "President Eisenhower's rural development program

Rupert Hughes,
Famed Author,
Historian, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9 (AP)—Rupert Hughes, 84, distinguished author-historian and an uncle of multimillionaire Howard Hughes, died at his home here today.

Hughes had suffered a stroke three years ago and had been in poor health the last year and a half. Death was attributed to heart failure brought on by the infirmities of old age.

He often called himself a literary Jack-of-all-trades—and it was an apt description.

Besides thousands of words of fiction, Hughes was noted as a top music critic, a poet, a successful Broadway playwright and one of the most prolific of Hollywood screen writers.

He also was a distinguished soldier, rising from captain and major in the Mexican and First World War to a colonel who helped found the California National Guard.

British List 35
"Most Wanted"
Cyprus Rebels

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Sept. 9 (AP)—The British issued today a revised list of 35 "most wanted" men of EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground. They put prizes of up to $28,000 on their heads, and offered free transportation to any place in the world for Cypriots willing to turn in any of the rebels.

The new list, as previous ones, is headed by George Grivas, 59, former Greek army colonel who is the reputed chieftain of Greek Cypriot rebels fighting to overthrow British rule and unite Cyprus with Greece. The British offer a reward of $28,000 for Grivas' capture.

$14,000 Each For 16

The roster included 16 other EOKA leaders on whose heads the British put a price of $14,000 each and 18 lesser lieutenants for whom rewards up to $14,000 are offered.

A list published last February named only 19 EOKA "hard core" men, including Grivas.

Among those on the $14,000 list is Markos Drakos, 24, reported to be Grivas' right-hand man and No. 2 in the EOKA command.

The 35 men are generally believed to be the hard core of EOKA. Most or all of them are thought to be hiding out in the rugged mountains along the north coast and in central Cyprus.

Bishop Issues Statement

Meanwhile, Bishop Yennadios of Salamis said in a statement printed in the Greek language newspaper Eleftheria:

"The presence in Cyprus of foreign troops for serving aims alien to the desires of the Cypriot people is condemned by them. We consider that this action by the British proves that Britain is not seriously concerned in finding a solution to satisfy the desires of the Cypriot people for self-determination, and so the gap between the British government and the Cypriot people becomes wider."

The bishop is acting head of the ethnarchy office in the absence of Bishop Anthimos of Kitium, who is under house arrest at his home in Larnaca because of alleged connections with EOKA. The ethnarchy office is the inner cabinet of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Commission,
Nasser End
Futile TalksMeeting's Failure
Shifts Spotlight
To London Parley

CAIRO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said tonight the Suez Canal crisis "is the most serious problem the world has before it."

Menzies heads the five-nation commission which has been conferring with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser for a week, seeking a solution of the dispute.

He said the commission's talks with Nasser ended tonight with an exchange of documents "fully covering" the arguments of the 18 nations which favor internationalizing the canal and those of Nasser in opposing internationalization.

"The situation is very grave," Menzies told newsmen as the talks ended.

Texts of conference documents released in London by Menzies' government revealed Nasser had declared any attempt to impose "collective domination" on the canal would bring "incalculable strife." Nasser reaffirmed his policy is to maintain free passage through the canal for ships of all nations without discrimination but that the canal must remain entirely Egyptian.

"Most Serious Problem"

"We came here," Menzies said, "to discuss the most serious problem the world has before it."

"We wanted to discuss it as quietly and fully as possible."

"We thought this could best be done without daily statements by the 'champions of both sides.'"

For that reason, he explained, no daily announcements were made of the progress of the talks. Menzies announced the "comprehensive conference documents" were being released in Cairo, Washington and London. He said they included a summary of all the arguments his commission presented to Nasser, and a summary of the viewpoint which Nasser expressed to the committee.

"We came here," Menzies said, "to present certain propositions, explain them, advance arguments in favor of them, and to illustrate their meaning."

"We have done that."

"We have been given all the time to do this that we required. There has been no delay on either side."

Spotlight On London

Failure of the talks in Cairo turned the spotlight on a meeting in London tomorrow of British and French leaders to decide their next step in attempting to counter Nasser's nationalizing the vital 103-mile waterway.

There was talk that British Prime Minister Eden would try to put the Suez problem before the United Nations.

But French Premier Guy Mollet, in a speech at Flers in Normandy gave no sign that France was ready to agree to an appeal to the U.N.

Mollet and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau will be in London tomorrow to confer with Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Memorial Rites
Attended By Ike

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower received communion today at private Episcopal services dedicating a new Pennsylvania State University chapel to the memory of his late sister-in-law.

The new all-faith chapel is named for Helen Eakin Eisenhower, who was the wife of the President's youngest brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower. She died July 10, 1954.

Eisenhower flew here from Washington in a small two-engine plane for the services for the family and a few friends.

A public dedication ceremony will be held next Sunday. Eisenhower returned to the capital by air immediately after the solemn memorial observance.

He was accompanied both ways by Lt. Col. Walter Tkach, assistant White House physician, and press secretary James C. Hagerity. The President's wife did not make the trip.

The President was met at the university airstrip by Milton Eisenhower, who is retiring Oct. 1 as president of Penn State to become president of Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore.

A crowd of about 200 students and faculty members stood in the warm sun at the chapel when the President's limousine drove up. He got a round of applause then and another on leaving the chapel.

Proper Approach Is Still Debated

How to treat the 60,000 drug addicts in the United States—as criminals or as physical and mental invalids—is being talked about in the wake of recent changes in federal narcotic control legislation. When Congress revised the law a few months ago, it adhered to the punitive approach to the problem which has been followed in this country for more than 40 years. However, its action was preceded by expressions of opposition in committee hearings from advocates of greater reliance on the medical approach. Meanwhile, the American Medical Association and the American Bar Association have undertaken a joint study to get more light on the question.

The movement to control traffic in narcotics was given strong impetus by the International Opium Convention in 1912. To carry out obligations assumed by the United States under that agreement, Congress in 1914 passed the Harrison Act, which set up a policing system designed to confine use of narcotics to medical purposes. Importation of opium or its derivatives for other than medical purposes had been banned in 1909, and the ban was tightened in 1912 by the Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act.

Later legislation has strengthened or supplemented these two basic regulatory statutes. Prison terms for violation of the narcotic laws were made mandatory in 1951 for all except first offenders. The Narcotic Control Act of 1956 made prison sentences mandatory for even first offenders and prescribed longer terms and heavier fines. The death penalty or life imprisonment was authorized for selling or giving heroin to minors.

Stiffening of controls failed to prevent a rise in the rate of addiction when illicit supplies became more plentiful after World War II. Some persons contend that the evil never can be wiped out by punitive measures. Vigorous efforts to prevent smuggling only raise prices of drugs to heights which make the traffic highly lucrative. And drug addicts, not otherwise impelled to crime, become thieves or prostitutes to obtain the $15 or $50 or even $100 a day needed to satisfy their craving. Worst of all, they may turn to peddling and initiate others into the habit to get a steady source of funds for their own supplies.

To knock the props from under the illicit traffic, the New York Academy of Medicine and other medical groups have proposed that public clinics be established across the country to administer narcotics to addicts at nominal cost and under carefully controlled conditions. All efforts would be made to induce addicts to undergo withdrawal treatment and rehabilitation while receiving only enough drugs to prevent severe discomfort. It is recognized that a hard-core group probably would have to be given minimal doses indefinitely.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Supreme Court

It has happened before and it is happening now that the Supreme Court of the United States is a controversial factor in a presidential election. Nobody can vote for a justice of the Supreme Court. He is appointed by the President, is confirmed by the Senate and holds office for life, unless impeached for misconduct or retires for old age. Once appointed, for whatever reason, a Supreme Court justice sits no matter how often the administration changes during his life-time. The present chief justice, Earl Warren, former governor of California, had never before had any judicial experience. His appointment was obviously political. While that in no way reflects unfavorably upon his capabilities, he has become a subject for controversy since he was elevated to the bench.

The principal criticism of the Court and the cause of its being an issue in this election is the old American quarrel over states' rights. Historically, the issue is a simple one. The United States is not a nation that grew out of the soil; it was formed. It was formed by the 13 colonies that rebelled against Great Britain in 1776 by enacting the Declaration of Independence. They attempted to govern themselves under the Articles of Confederation which were so loose that practically speaking no national government could function. Under the influence of the Federalist party led by Alexander Hamilton, the Constitution was written and adopted and this has been our law since.

While the Constitution does establish a central government with specific authority, it protects states' rights by the 10th Amendment which declares:

"The powers not granted to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people."

The War Between the States settled the question of the right of a sovereign state to secede from the United States if it so chooses. Although the War Between the States did strengthen the federal government, it did not abolish states' rights and no amendment was ever adopted limiting the 10th Amendment or abolishing it.

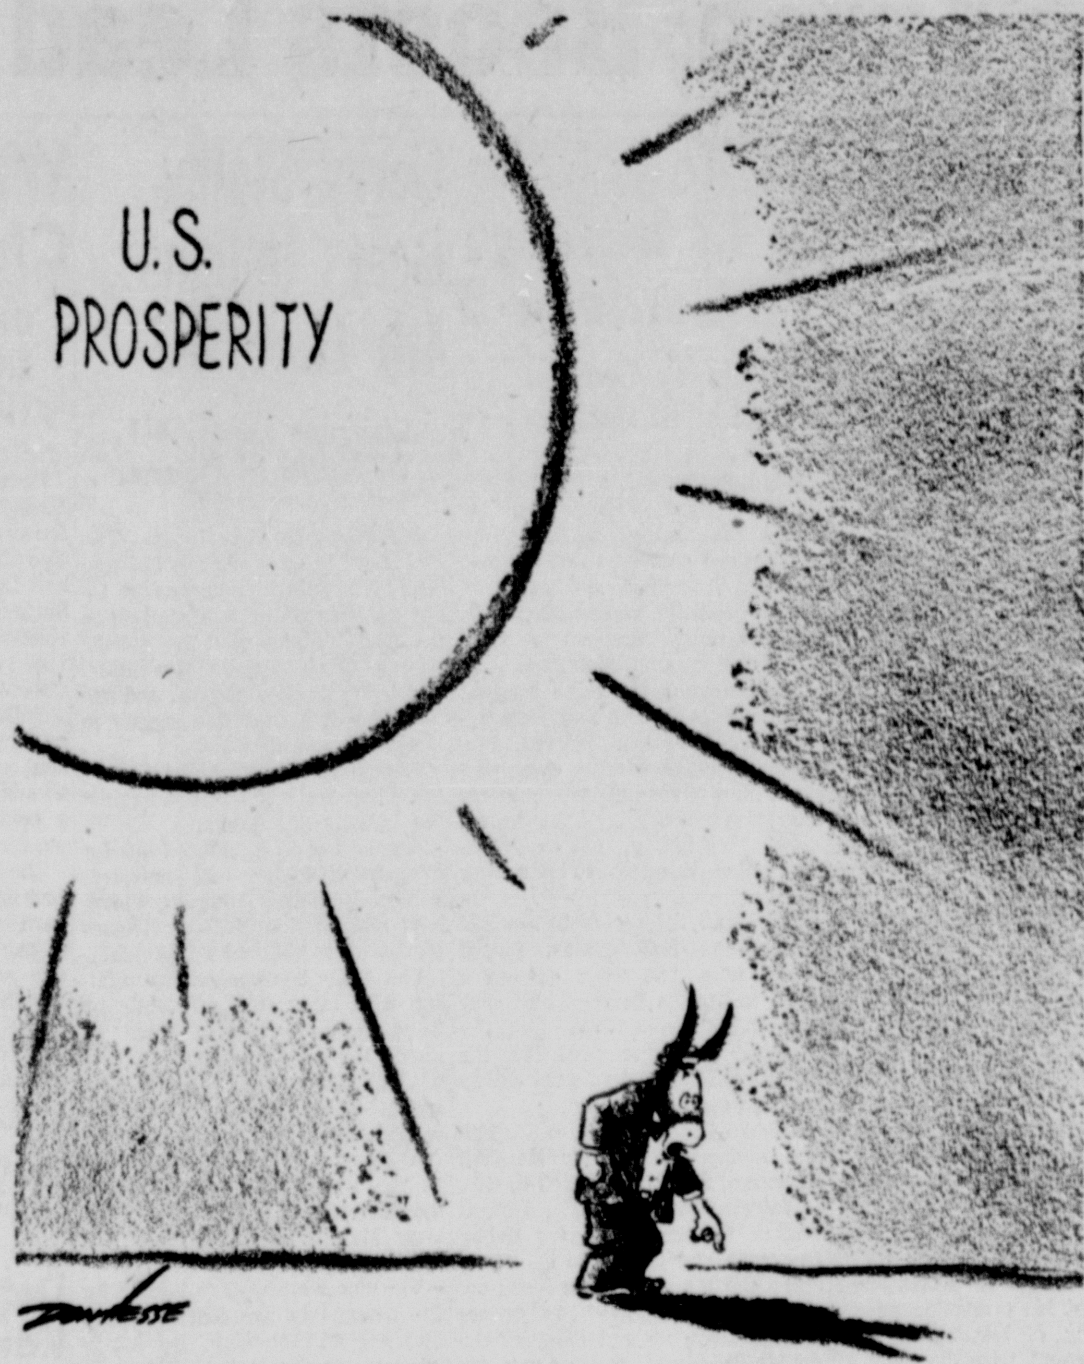

Recent Supreme Court decisions have been regarded as tending to deprive the states of rights to which they are entitled by the Constitution. The Southern states, for instance, claim that they were making great progress in the solution of the Negro question, but that a Supreme Court decision aroused such passions in the South that it set back racial relations in the South several decades. This decision is definitely an anti-states' rights decision.

Out of 13 decisions dealing with Communist cases, the Supreme Court decided six in such a manner that the Communist cause has gained a new lease of life. If the Supreme Court pursues abstract justice as an end in itself, it is beyond and above criticism; in that case, however, the Court must recognize that it is not a third legislative chamber and that the Constitution does not provide for such a body.

On the other hand, no government agency can altogether flout public opinion. The current Supreme Court has run counter to public opinion and thereby has become a political issue in the country. If the Court is highly respected, as it was when Edward D. White or William Howard Taft or Charles Evans Hughes was chief justice, it could pursue a course which caused men to pause in their attitudes. Earl Warren has not yet won such confidence or respect.

"Here's A Dark Spot"

Reporter Believes Presidential Race Will Be Close

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

As of today, after a personal polling experience in the Northwest and careful study of all the other relatively hard evidence available, this reporter is ready to go out on a limb with the statement that the election looks like a horse race.

This is only going out on a limb, to be sure, because of the numerous pre-convention forecasts of a record-breaking landslide for President Eisenhower. Shortly before the conventions were held, for instance, Dr. George Gallup published a poll showing Eisenhower leading Adlai Stevenson by the staggering margin of 61 to 37. And these remarkable figures were then accepted as perfectly reasonable by a great majority of trained observers, including, I must add, myself.

Dr. Gallup was recently asked whether he thought the Eisenhower lead was still anything like that indicated by his pre-convention poll. He replied rather emphatically in the negative. There was always, he said, a strong tendency to close ranks after the party nominees had been chosen.

May Encourage Over-Optimism

This theory of Dr. Gallup's according to my information, will be sustained by a sharply narrowed Eisenhower lead in his first post-convention poll. But although it is greatly daring to say so, I would say that even Dr. Gallup's figures on Eisenhower's current lead will still be likely to encourage Republican over-optimism.

The first and least of my reasons for this conclusion is the sharpness of the switch from Eisenhower to Stevenson that I myself found in Portland and Seattle, where I worked with Lou Harris, an experienced professional in the polling business. I did not think, and Harris did not think, that our sample was by any means large enough to permit confident citation of voting percentages. As already reported, we were only confident that a rather massive Eisenhower-Stevenson switch had taken place.

But in fact our sample in both cities was enormously larger than the Portland-Seattle samples included in the latest Gallup poll, which is based on only 2,000 interviews for the whole country. In fact our sample will still be somewhat larger than the Portland-Seattle samples to be included in the special Gallup election polls of the future, which will be based on 10,000 interviews across the country.

And this local Northwestern sample of ours showed the Eisenhower 1952 lead of 55 to 45 for Stevenson transformed into an approximate Stevenson 1956 lead of 55 to 45 for Eisenhower. Four years ago, Eisenhower's majority in Portland and Seattle was almost precisely identical with his nationwide majority. Thus the change in the Northwest might well be regarded as extremely ominous for the Republicans—except that I do not take the exact percentages seriously, although they are based on local samples so much larger than Dr. Gallup's.

Genuine Phenomenon

On the other hand there is important confirmation that the transfer of votes from Eisenhower to Stevenson is a very genuine and very significant phenomenon, which is not limited to the Northwest. The Wall Street Journal, for example, ordered its 12 strategically located branch offices across the country to undertake a poll of Eisenhower-Nixon versus Stevenson-Kefauver just as soon as the Democratic nominees had been selected. This was a poll taken by a large number of expert reporters, under orders to get a representative cross section of opinion in a representative cross section of American cities.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The aftermath of the desiccated conventions is a call for more certified mortar of the realm.

When you're building for the future you've got to put up the wallpaper before you tear down the scaffolding. It costs money to oil the gears of public demand. There has never been a penny ale on the millenium.

The odds are a rattle in a tin-cup against a king's ransom. It isn't so long ago that a reform candidate was financed by a raffle.

Any citizen who puts his money where his mouth is expects negotiable favors. Moola activates the mare. The jockeys don't go along just for the ride.

The campaign managers do the super-marketing and are supposed to screen the groceries. But when the coins are bouncing on the drum you have to take the batter with the sweat.

Harding, Wilson and Grant were gems in a gypsy setting. They were surrounded by experts who could throw dice over a transom and call 'em in the next room.

In politics the demand never overlaps the supply. The books balance as evenly as a 32-tooth bite.

The national committees raise the scratch and demand an endorsement in sky-writing. It's a wise candidate who knows his own fodder.

Never Give Up: Optimism Key To Rehabilitation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Optimism is the key to rehabilitation. It paid a lifetime of dividends to a Detroit mother and her child. The youngster in question was born without arms and with club feet, a congenital dislocation of both hips, and marked curvature of the spine.

The physician put the hips back in place. The feet were placed in a cast for a year but this proved unsuccessful. At age three, braces were applied but the foot deformities were so severe, the plan was discontinued. Meanwhile, the tot showed considerable ingenuity and learned to feed herself, comb her hair, and write with her toes and to push herself around the floor effectively.

Dr. Joseph L. Fleming, of the Henry Ford Hospital, says the little girl's mom never gave up. When the youngster was 4½, her mother took her to a clinic in a cart and wanted to know if anything could be done to help the child learn to walk. The surgeons hesitated because the youngster had made an excellent adjustment to her handicaps and if the operation on the lower extremities failed, total incapacity might result.

But the mother remained optimistic and insisted on surgery. She said, "I can always feed her but I can't always lift and carry her." The surgeons were convinced and started on the long trek toward rehabilitation.

Operations and casts were followed by months of intensive therapy and a strenuous home exercise program. The first sign of progress came when the youngster was able to walk with help although she lost her balance if she tried to stand alone.

She was fitted with a special back brace to which a broomstick was attached via a swivel joint. With the aid of her parents and this third leg, she learned gradually to stand and walk alone. The child was taught to use her head and neck to replace the normal balancing function given by the arms. This part of her rehabilitation took 10 months.

The next phase centered about developing the muscles of the legs, knees, and spine which are needed to rise from a sitting position. Prostheses were obtained for the upper extremities and in the following year she became skillful in the use of her artificial arms and hands. With their help she was able to eat, wash her face, clean her teeth, and type.

She attends school and a camp for handicapped children. The little miss is now eight years old and although she will require continued care, her physicians and occupational therapists consider her potentially employable.

"It's wonderful dear," he fibbed gallantly, "but you better write down exactly what you put in it. The doctor probably will want to know."

Senator Mails Out 4,000,000 Copies Of Speech At Taxpayers' Expense

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's note: Drew Pearson is touring the Middle East. During his absence his column is being written by his junior partner, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Tom Martin (R., Iowa) has broken all records for abusing the free mailing privilege. He has just mailed out a staggering 4,000,000 copies of a political speech at the taxpayers' expense.

This is the biggest load of free mail ever dumped on the public by a single senator, making Martin the new undisputed franking king.

This dubious title previously was held by Congressman Ralph Gwinn (R., N. Y.), who periodically floods his district with political literature. In fact, his printed speeches have become a major source of paper for lighting fires in Bronxville, N. Y.

Yet Gwinn, in his most ambitious campaigns to advertise his own speeches, never mailed out anything like 4,000,000 copies.

Martin's record mailing is going to farmers in 13 states. It's a farm speech, called "Fifty Facts for Farmers," which presumably is meant to influence the farm vote.

Senator's "Valet"

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDE-LIGHTS — The State Department heard recently that Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), then touring the Far East, wanted government funds for a valet. Hickenlooper is not the type who needs a valet to help him dress, so this column investigated... The taxpayers will be relieved to know it was all a typographical error. The money was requested not for a valet, but for Francis Valco. He happens to be the Senate foreign relations aide who handled the finances for Hickenlooper's trip...

Clare Boothe Luce, our lady ambassador to Italy, will resign before the November elections. She'll try to wheedle a cabinet post out of President Eisenhower (if he's elected)... Millionaire John Hay Whitney has turned down the job of ambassador to Britain. He offered to accept the post for one year, but President Eisenhower refused to appoint him on those terms...

The President has instructed Secretary of State Dulles to be ready to fly to London for another emergency conference on the Suez Canal. Ike is so alarmed at the continued danger of war that he wants Dulles personally to deal with this crisis... The Kremlin seems to think President Eisenhower is a cinch to win the November elections. Party chief Nikita Khrushchev has told half a dozen diplomats that Ike is sure to win. Khrushchev adds slyly that he hopes Ike will pick a new secretary of state.

Reading Note

President Eisenhower likes to read westerns for relaxation, but the reading habits of senators and congressmen are a better kept secret.

Some light can now be shed, however, on their literary tastes. One book at the Library of Congress has a two-month waiting list. To meet the demand, the library has inserted a pink slip in the flyleaf. It reads: "The long waiting list of senators and members for this book requires that, in fairness to them, it be treated as a 10-day book, i. e., it is to be returned 10 days from this date, so that it may be delivered to the next senator or member on the waiting list."

Name of the book: "Death Walks on Cat Feet" by D. B. Olsen.

Quotes Cable

Unrepentant Peronistas, disciples of ousted dictator Peron, have teamed up with the Communists to win control of the powerful Argentine labor movement.

In a confidential cable from Buenos Aires, the American embassy reports: "There are at least a half dozen labor groups struggling for control. They range from left to right in political stripe, but the Communist left is at work with Peronist fragments in a joint effort to get control. The Communies and the Peronistas have formed an outfit called Movimiento pro la Democratización del Movimiento Obrero, and are boring from within. Little firm intelligence is available on this combined operation, but it exists."

The cable declares that "a lot of Argentine workers—not the majority—but plenty of them, remain loyal to Peron. The engineers and firemen's union, the bank clerks, the printing trades people all have been happily dePeronized. But the brewery workers, for example, are still strongly pro-Peron. The rest are in vague positions of pro or anti-Peron."

Still the cable concludes: "Given half a chance the government and the labor unions will work out a way of living together, but the job is a long, tough one."

Democrats See Red

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES — Congressman Francis Walter (D., Pa.), chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, will blast the Defense Department for moving Far Eastern Military Headquarters from Japan to Hawaii... He will accuse the Eisenhower administration of putting economy ahead of security in ordering the move.

Walter will charge that the Communist-led Longshoremen's Union not only dominates the docks but "controls" the Hawaiian economy.

However, the Army plans to man the docks with GIs in case of emergency. Observers also claim the workers are loyal Americans, would not follow their Red leaders in a showdown.

The Democrats, sensitive about GOP charges reflecting on their loyalty, hope to turn the Red issue against the Republicans in the fall campaign. They have dug up documents proving that the Communists originally infiltrated the country under the Hoover administration.

A special House committee, investigating Communist activities, reported on December 18, 1950: "We have allowed a lot of Russian Communists to come in, despite the fact we have no diplomatic relations with the Soviet government. Some of them have been here as long as eight years."... Andrew Irshay, a Trenton, N. J., editor, testified on December 19, 1950: "There have been a number of Hungarian Communists settling in Trenton... These fellows bore from within. They belong to churches, the lodges, and generally participate in the activities of the community"... The Democrats will use such quotes to back up their charges that the Red problem developed under the Republicans.

Bonds, Interest Rates

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Recently, monetary authorities have tightened their controls again, bringing about a further decline in bond prices. I forecast that these authorities—so long as business remains good—will maintain a firm rein on credit. The trend for bond prices has been down for 20 months. That is the primary reason why I have advised and still advise the average investor to buy only short maturity bonds.

Will Again Be Popular

Investor interest in bonds has increased somewhat in recent weeks as uncertainties have crept into the outlook for common stock prices and as yields frock, the most popular common stocks have become quite low. These stocks could be particularly vulnerable in any important market correction. I predict that investor interest in bonds will grow.

As I view the monetary and business situation this fall, I foresee a continued weak bond market. The monetary authorities will have to contend with possible upward price pressure arising out of the steel wage settlement; but nothing radical will be done until after the elections in November. Certainly nothing will be done before then to harm business.

Government Bonds

Do not count on long-term government bonds showing any sustained strength. After the elections the money managers may have to fight higher prices by again slightly tightening credit terms and raising money rates. I assume that bankers—who are mostly Republicans—do not object to higher money rates.

I would caution the average investor against buying long-term government bonds with any thought of profits. As with other bond groups, I urge investors to confine the major portion of their purchases to intermediate and short-term government issues. Only for death-tax purposes should one build a backlog of those long-term Treasury issues which are always worth par for payment of estate taxes. This means one should not pay more than par for them. Remember, however, that the interest received from government bonds is subject to federal income taxes.

Insurance Companies

The difference in yields between high-grade corporate and government bonds in a given maturity is now relatively small. However, I question whether even insurance companies should buy so heavily into the corporate field as into governments. Unlike the individual investor who maintains a balanced fund of bonds and stocks, insurance companies, particularly life companies, must spread maturities and include some long-term bonds, including AAA utilities and rails. Colleges, hospitals, and funds not subject to taxation can well consider good corporate bonds. However, I think such buyers should put more of their bond funds into utilities and industrials than into rails.

Bonds For Ordinary Investors

The average investor to whom yield is important would be justified in putting a small part of his bond funds into medium-grade utility and industrial issues. On long-term issues of such bonds, he can now obtain a yield of about 3.75 per cent on rails, 3.59 per cent on industrials, and 3.62 per cent on utilities. But at these yields, I prefer nontaxable bonds, such as municipals and high-grade revenue issues for those who are in the high tax brackets and who do not worry about marketability.

I would recommend that purchases of medium-grade corporation bonds be confined to first-mortgage issues. Medium-grade bonds are influenced in price movement by what happens in the stock market. In no case should the average investor place any of his funds intended as a nest egg for later purchase of stocks in other than short-term high-grade issues, even though he may have to make some sacrifice of yield.

Convertible Bonds

Ordinarily, I like to recommend convertible bonds to my readers; but in view of uncertainties in the stock market it is questionable whether very many purchases in this field should be made now. Again I recommend to individuals—good short-term tax-exempt bonds.

Coren On Bridge

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—North-South vulnerable and as South you hold:

AK4♥96532♦KQJ95♣7

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East Pass 1 club 1 spade Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Opposite a partner who could venture a vulnerable overcall, you have a hand of distinct merit and should offer partner an opportunity to contract for game. Bidding two of one of your red suits is not calculated to get you to game, for if partner rebids spades, you will hardly be in position to act again. Your trumps are adequate to support a vulnerable overcall.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable and as South you hold:

AK7♥8♦KJ97643♠1098

Partner opens with one heart. What is your response?

A.—Pass. To respond in any fashion with this hand might lead to serious complications. If you acknowledge your hand might be passing, you may find it expedient to enter the auction on the next round.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK7653♥10♦72♠K9864

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West 1 spade 2 hearts 4 spades Pass 5 spades Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six spades. The bid above game in this sequence is conventionally regarded as an inquiry as to partner's holding in the adverse suit. If responder can promise that he will lose no more than one trick in that suit, he should accept the invitation. Observe that if your heart and diamond holdings were reversed your proper call would be a pass.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AA2♥KJ732♦AJ6♠A102

Partner opens with one spade. What is your response?

A.—Two hearts. With one point more this hand would be a mandatory jump shift (which calls for 19 points). Since you have no special support in partner's suit, nor a good suit of your own, we recommend an unaccelerated pass. There will be time enough to display your charms.

Q. 5—Both sides have a 40 part score and as South you hold:

AAQ62♥A1053♦KJ7♠A94

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East 1 spade 1 spade 2 spades 3 diamonds ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. You have at least four tricks to contribute to the defense with a fair chance for the fifth. If partner's raise includes high cards, the penalty should be substantial. If partner's assets are principally distributional, he will carry on to three spades to complete the game.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable and as South you hold:

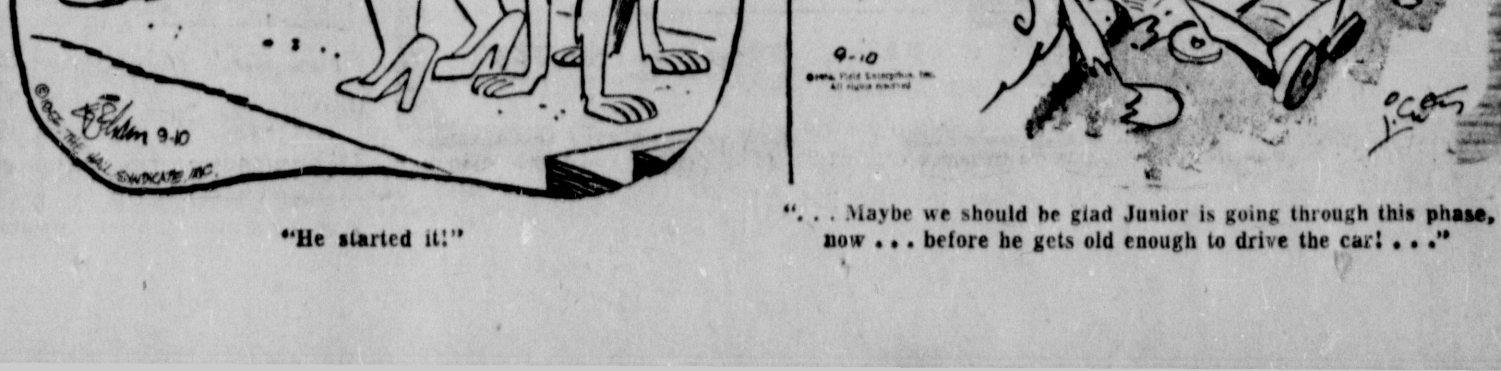

AAQ1086♥AK962♦64♠2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East 1 spade 1 spade 2 spades 3 diamonds ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner has acknowledged holding a worthless hand, a bid of two hearts would be an unsound risk. The chances of a game are much too remote to justify courting a sizeable penalty.

Driver Killed Instantly When Car Hits Bridge

John G. Merrbach Dies At Gilmore

A 44-year-old local man was killed instantly early yesterday morning when the car he was operating rammed into a concrete bridge at Gilmore on State Route 36 near Lonaconing.

The victim was John Godfrey Merrbach of 510 Woodside Avenue, who operated a shoe repair shop at Lonaconing.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who said death was instantaneous, reported that Merrbach died of a fractured skull.

He also suffered a crushed left chest, fractured left leg and arm.

Traveling Alone

Police, who reported that the accident occurred about 1:20 a. m. yesterday, said Merrbach was traveling north alone on Route 36, apparently at a high rate of speed.

Girl, 4, Killed By Automobile

Cumberland City Police were asked last night to locate Mrs. Lolita Jones whose four-year-old daughter, Sherri Lee Jones, was killed in Boynton, Pa., yesterday when she was struck by an auto.

The child's mother is believed to be residing in Cumberland or the immediate area. Pennsylvania State Police said the child was struck about 1 p. m. yesterday as she darted from behind a parked car into the path of a car driven by Gale Leroy Hillegas, 33, of Salisbury, Pa.

The child's father, John Jones, of Boynton, was with her at the time of the accident which occurred on a township road near the elementary school.

He lost control of the car and rammed into the west side of the concrete bridge. The vehicle was demolished.

Investigating officers were Trooper First Class Harry S. Bosley and Trooper J. F. Stakem of the State Police.

A native of Frostburg, Mr. Merrbach was born October 4, 1911, and was a son of Mrs. Mary Merrbach of Gilmore, and the late Emory W. Merrbach.

Funeral Tomorrow

Surviving, besides his widow, Mrs. Bessie E. (Porter) Merrbach, are three daughters, Mrs. Angus McDonald, Charles Town, W. Va.; Mrs. Lee Breeden, Ransom, W. Va.; Miss Jacqueline Merrbach, Morgantown, W. Va.; a brother, Eugene P. Merrbach, Gilmore, and three grandchildren.

Mr. Merrbach was a member of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The body is at the Knight Funeral Home, where a service will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. with Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Church, officiating.

Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Six Persons Stopped Here In Stolen Car

Six persons, including a 10-month-old baby, were stopped near here yesterday afternoon in a car which reportedly had been stolen in Connecticut.

Maryland State Police said they were on their way to California, but their trip to the West was curtailed when the car and passengers were apprehended along Wilkesboro Road.

Police got their first lead when a service station operator about four miles east of here on Route 40 reported that he was suspicious of the car and passengers.

One of the passengers attempted to sell the service station operator the hub caps and fender skirts of the 1955 Pontiac convertible.

The driver of the car was reported to reside in Connecticut, while two of the passengers were from Massachusetts and a man, woman and baby were from Philadelphia.

Police said that five of the passengers had been picked up by hitchhikers from the driver. They were held for questioning while police notified authorities of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The travelers sold the hub caps and fender skirts to a resident who lives near Cumberland, but they have been recovered. Trooper Lindberg Cook investigated.

LaVale Firemen Plan Fund Drive

Final plans for the annual fund campaign of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will be made at a general membership meeting at the LaVale Fire Hall Tuesday evening.

The drive will run from September 17 through September 30. Principal action tomorrow night, according to Cromwell C. Zembower, will be assignment of 23 zone captains to cover the area served by the volunteer firemen.

Assisting Zembower are T. Lloyd Smith, James Loar and Robert Gruen. Leaflets explaining the objectives of the free-will campaign will be distributed to all homes in the area.

Bowling Green Fire Hall Rises

Bricklayers are shown adding to the height of the new fire hall of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company along McMullen Highway in that suburban community. Fire Chief Calvin Ayers said last night the firemen hope to have the $30,000 building under roof by the end of the month, although much work still will remain. Much of the labor has been done by the volunteer firemen themselves.

Ayers figures between 20 and 25 men have donated their time and effort since work was started in the early spring. The new fire hall was made necessary when the State Roads Commission purchased the old hall because it is on the right of way planned for one portion of the divided U. S. Route 220 through Bowling Green. Some materials have been salvaged from the hall.

Volunteer Firemen Oppose Bypass Of Route 40 Area

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association yesterday afternoon added its support to the growing campaign to reverse the action which resulted in the elimination of that portion of U.S. Route 40 between Hancock and Washington, Pa., from the Federal Interstate Highway System.

At the meeting in the Friendsville Fire Hall, the association instructed Cromwell C. Zembower, association secretary, to write U. S. Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler, Rep. De Witt S. Hyde and Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the State Roads Commission, expressing their opposition.

Most of the rest of the September meeting was devoted to a discussion of plans for Fire Prevention Week October 7-13. Alvin Rankin of Frostburg, committee chairman, issued posters, inspection blanks and lapel pins to representatives of the various fire companies.

Each company was urged to conduct demonstrations and inspections in its community to emphasize the need for fire prevention measures.

This year the program will be a coordinated effort involving the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, the Allegany-Garrett Counties Fire Insurance Underwriters' Association and the Cumberland Fire Department.

Zembower is chairman of the speakers' bureau for Fire Prevention Week. His group already is accepting speaking engagements throughout the month of October for fire prevention programs for service clubs and school groups.

President George Comp of Deer Park officiated at yesterday's session. The next meeting will be held October 7 at Ellerslie. Eighteen of the 31 companies attended.

Knights Plan Installation Friday Night

A formal installation of officers of Chief Justice Toney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will be held on Friday at 8:30 p. m. at the home of Cumberland Council 586, K of C.

Installing officer will be John F. Nagel, Master of the Fourth Degree, District of Maryland. The officers who will be installed include:

Joseph Webb, faithful navigator; James Condon, faithful captain; James Quinn, faithful pilot; Francis Werner, faithful comptroller; Walter Meade, faithful purser; John Kreidler, faithful scribe; Norman Fearnow, faithful inside sentinel.

Patrick Hopkins, faithful outside sentinel and J. Donald Murray, faithful admiral. The Old Defender's Day dinner dance committee will meet tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. at the local council home. Afterwards the degree exemplification committee will convene.

Today's Sermonette

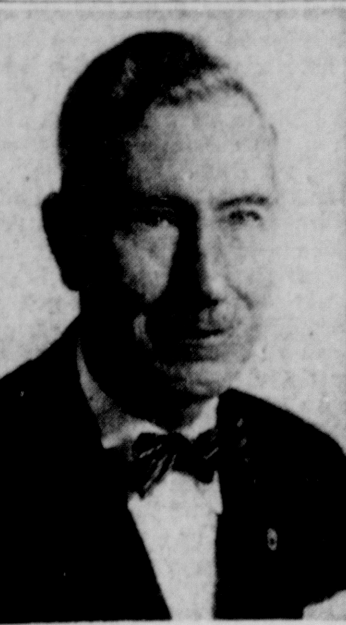

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at First Presbyterian Church by the pastor, Rev. Maurice D. Robertson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Keeping Faith With God

By Rev. Maurice D. Robertson

The great Quaker saint, John Woolman, kept a journal or diary all his life, which has become a classic devotional and inspirational book. On a trip through North Carolina visiting various Friends' Societies, Woolman was distressed to note a frequently recurring notation in the minutes of their meetings. It read: "No business requiring entry." Though Woolman, a Quaker, was a master at holding his temper and his tongue, this infuriated and angered him and he wrote in his diary: "In God's name why was there not some business that required entry and strong action? With the horrible sin of slavery and its cruelties all around them, and the sin of war impending, how could they say, 'No business that required entry'?"

It reminds one of the message in the Book of Revelation, of the Angel of the Lord to the Church at Laodicea. In effect, the angel said to the church, "You are not saying anything or doing anything. You are in that gray twilight of inaction. You are neither hot or

FRED B. HUEBENTHAL

Chicago Expert Will Address Realtors Here

Fred B. Huebenthal, Chicago realtor-lawyer and real estate consultant, will be the headline speaker for the fifth semi-annual State-wide Real Estate Conference to be held by the Maryland Real Estate Association here October 12.

Huebenthal has been engaged in the real estate business on the West Side of Chicago for 30 years, specializing in the fields of brokerage, management, financing and appraising.

In recent years, his services have been in constant demand as a speaker and lecturer on real estate topics.

What's Ahead?

At the meeting here, he will speak on "What's Ahead for Real Estate."

Huebenthal has served as president of the West Side Real Estate Board, the Chicago Real Estate Board and the Illinois Association. He is a member of the American Society of Real Estate Consultants and serves as an instructor in the Real Estate Institute in Chicago.

The Columbus Day session will open at 2 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Mayor Roy W. Eves will speak at the opening session and greet the delegates. Up to 300 Maryland realtors and their wives are expected to attend.

Committee Listed

The committee in charge of the program for the conference is headed by George W. Robertson, Bethesda.

Other members are Adolph

Shriners Lose Fezzes But Keep Horns

One of the two Cumberland Shriners whose fezzes were stolen early Saturday morning when several young men jumped them on North Charles Street in Baltimore said last night upon his return to this city that he believes the culprits were trying to steal their musical instruments.

Arthur H. Apsey said he and J. Wallace Close were walking casually along North Charles Street a few feet ahead of their window-shopping wives when suddenly they were assaulted. Close was knocked to the sidewalk but managed to hold onto his baritone horn after his fez had been snatched. Apsey said his fez also was taken, but he managed to hold onto his clarinet.

While in Baltimore attending the Shrine Mid-Atlantic States Regional Convention, members of the Ali Ghan Shrine band were honored by Boumi Temple at a party Friday night. The bandmen, including Apsey and Close, marched to the Boumi Temple on North Charles Street.

They left the party with their wives about 1:30 a. m. Saturday and were walking casually toward their hotel rooms when suddenly they were "jumped." Two of their assailants were captured and the stolen fezzes were recovered. Jack McClure, 23, and Charles W. Cross, 20, were fined $50 each in magistrate's court in Baltimore Saturday.

Civil Defense Week Opening In City Today

Information Center On Baltimore St.

Cumberland and Allegany County join the nation today in marking the opening of Civil Defense Week.

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for the county, said last night that an information center will be located near St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Baltimore Street, for the convenience of residents who would like to learn more about the CD program.

Today the information center will be open from noon until 9 p. m., and from noon until 5 p. m. the rest of the week.

Volunteers Needed

Walter Byer, assistant chief warden of Cumberland, Raymond Whitehair, medical service, and T/Sgt. Joseph Hodge, new regional liaison representative of the Ground Observer Corps in this area will be in charge of the booth and will be assisted by other volunteers.

Volunteers in Civil Defense work in Cumberland and immediate areas are being sought. Those who are on duty at the center will answer questions on various phases of CD work and will have various pamphlets available.

Also on display will be medical, communications and radiological equipment. Barger pointed out that this evening from about 5 o'clock until 9 o'clock the Civil Defense Rescue Truck will be on display at North Centre Street just off Baltimore Street.

Will Explain Equipment

Jesse Baker and Frank Schilling will be assisted by members of the men and women's rescue squad in explaining the various parts of the rescue equipment.

The most important basic instinct of every human being is survival and this is precisely what Civil Defense represents, according to Barger, who said it is a dynamic concept of survival which is becoming a practical, everyday way of life.

Should the catastrophe of nuclear war strike the nation, Civil Defense provides the only organized means of survival, he said, adding:

A good reminder is "Alert Today...Alive Tomorrow."

Two Persons Wounded In Rifle Mishaps

Two persons were injured in shooting accidents yesterday in widely separated areas of the county.

A 26-year-old Midland man was reported in satisfactory condition last night in Miners Hospital where he was admitted earlier in the evening with a gunshot wound accidentally inflicted by a four-year-old boy.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police gave this account of the shooting:

The victim, Junior Lee Yates, a Baltimore and Ohio brakeman, went target shooting yesterday afternoon with George Sagle Hughes Sr., of Frostburg, his four-year-old son, George Jr., and another friend.

The three men were using a shotgun to practice shooting at clay pigeons on an abandoned strip mining area near Klondike.

After the pigeons had been shot up, the men began to shoot the smaller pieces with a .22 calibre rifle.

When they finished practicing, Hughes laid the gun on the ground.

While the three men were talking, the four-year-old boy apparently got curious and picked up the firearm. It discharged and the slug hit Yates in the right hip.

Charles Ernest Brinning, 17, of 766 Northern Avenue, Hagerstown, was shot in the bottom of the right foot with a .22 calibre rifle on the West Side of Town Hill Mountain yesterday afternoon.

State Police Trooper First Class Harry S. Bosley said Brinning had been helping his father, Harry Brinning, build a hunting lodge. The younger Brinning was lying on the ground when he was hit by a bullet fired by Press Martin, 45, who was helping to build the lodge.

Martin fired from about 25 yards behind and to the left of the boy. Bosley said the shot apparently ricocheted from rock. Brinning was admitted to Washington County Hospital at Hagerstown for surgery. Martin was not held.

Maryland State Forest Department Marking Its Fiftieth Anniversary

Maryland is celebrating its 50th year of state forestry.

Since 1906, when the legislature created the State Board of Forestry, the Old Line State has been in the vanguard, helping to write the nation's forestry history.

In an article appearing in the program of the Forestry Field Day slated tomorrow in Frederick County, it is pointed out that Maryland was the third state in the Union to hire a technically trained forester.

Its forestry code, which has never needed basic changes, has

Senate GOP Leader Will Speak Here

Knowland To Visit City October 3

U. S. Senator William Fife Knowland of California, minority leader of the Senate, will appear in Cumberland at a political dinner meeting Wednesday, October 3, in behalf of Maryland Republican candidates for public office and the National GOP ticket, Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde announced here yesterday.

Another prominent Californian, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, will speak in Hagerstown Friday, September 28, at a political rally sponsored by the Washington County Republican Committee, Congressman Hyde added.

Senator Knowland is a 48-year-old California native. He has been assistant publisher of the Oakland Tribune since 1933 and served three years in the U. S. Army during World War II. He was appointed to the U. S. Senate in 1945 and has held the seat ever since, having won his first six-year term in 1946.

Details of Senator Knowland's appearance in Cumberland are being made by the Allegany County Republican Committee.

Hyde Campaigns Here

Rep. Hyde, seeking a third term in the House of Representatives from the five-county Sixth Congressional District, plans to spend most of this week in Allegany County following a program of informal campaigning.

The Montgomery County man will interrupt his stay here briefly tomorrow by flying to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for a luncheon engagement of particular significance to those who have been campaigning for a cleaner Potomac River.

At White Sulphur Springs, Rep. Hyde plans to meet with Governor Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, Governor Thomas R. Stanley of Virginia, Governor William C. Marland of West Virginia, Governor George M. Leader of Pennsylvania and one of the three commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Governor McKeldin has arranged this meeting at the request of Rep. Hyde for a discussion of plans for the expansion of the compact which binds the four states and the District of Columbia together in the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

Authority Needed

The commissioners now have only authority for planning and recommending measures concerning pollution of the Potomac River. Authority is lacking for them to regulate and control pollution on the river, Hyde said.

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin was authorized by resolution on Congress which gave the four states and the District of Columbia power to enter into a compact, which was done in 1940.

Rep. Hyde said the compact limited the authority of the commissioners more than was required under the Congressional resolution, which gave the commissioners regulatory and control powers.

Governors To Confer

Similar powers are now held by the eight-state Ohio River Valley Commission and the Interstate Sanitation Commission involving New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, Rep. Hyde said. The Pollution Control Bill passed by the last session of Congress also spells out this added authority, he added.

The meeting is being arranged at White Sulphur Springs because Governors McKeldin, Marland and Stanley will be attending the Southern Governors Conference there, as will one of the three District of Columbia commissioners.

Woodrow W. Gurley, local automobile dealer and amateur pilot, will fly Rep. Hyde to the West Virginia resort and return him promptly tomorrow afternoon.

The Congressman from Bethesda arrived in Cumberland Saturday night. Yesterday morning he attended the worship service at St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

Demos To Open Headquarters In Md. Today

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9 (AP) — The Maryland Democratic Party's newly-appointed general election campaign team, headed by State Sen. John Grason Turnbull, will open headquarters here tomorrow.

T. Barton Harrington, State party chairman, yesterday announced the Baltimore County senator's appointment as campaign chairman.

He said Turnbull will run the Maryland campaign "on behalf of the national ticket and will coordinate the activities of that campaign with those of the senatorial candidate, George P. Mahoney, and the seven congressional candidates."

Other members of the team are Wilbur R. Dulin of Annapolis, former State senator, who will serve as campaign secretary and Comptroller R. Walter Graham of Baltimore, the treasurer. Lawrence Fenneman, former war manpower commissioner for Maryland, will head the campaign advisory committee.

Headquarters will be opened in the Emerson Hotel.

Turnbull's selection was decided on following consultation with National Committeeman Michael J. Birmingham, National Committeewoman Mildred Otensack, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, Mahoney and other party leaders.

Turnbull was regarded as a possible candidate for the senatorial nomination early this year until Birmingham, a fellow Baltimore countian, was named Mahoney's campaign manager.

Dr. Rasmussen To Open Lecture Series Tuesday

Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, professor of systematic theology at Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., will open a series of lectures here tomorrow night on "A Comparison of Lutheran and Roman Catholic Doctrines."

The lecture series, sponsored by the Friendly Young Adults Sunday Church School Class of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, will open at 7:30 p. m. at the church. Lectures will be given at the same time on the second Tuesday of each month through February.

Dr. Rasmussen, graduate of Gettysburg College, took his post-graduate work at Columbia University and at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is the author of "What About Scandinavia?" and has translated several theological works from the Swedish. He has held pastorates at Messiah Lutheran Church in Gettysburg, and at Luther Place Church in Washington.

Dr. Rasmussen is a past president of the East Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church, the Maryland Synod, and the Washington Federation of Churches.

A teacher at the seminary since 1940, Dr. Rasmussen represented the United Lutheran Church in America at the Third World Conference on Faith and Order in 1952.

Topic of tomorrow night's lecture is "The Church." Other subjects, and the dates on which they will be discussed: October 9, "The Word of God"; November 13, "Justification"; December 11, "Purgatory and the Future Life"; January 15, "Marriage and Divorce"; February 12, "The Virgin Mary."

Boy Hurt In Mower Mishap Returns Home

Six-year-old Alan D. Paxton returned to his home at 12 Weber Street last night from Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient for a week after a power lawnmower ran over his foot while he was visiting his grandfather at Flintstone.

Alan's father, Eston Paxton, said the lad was operating the mower himself, and that previously published reports that his grandfather was running the machine were in error.
